What is it?	A new Policy/Strategy/Practice <input type="checkbox"/> A revised Policy/Strategy/Practice X
Description of the proposal:	This is a review of an existing policy and guidance. The policy sets out the circumstances in which overtime will be paid and the rate at which it will be paid, along with enhancements due for working on designated Public/Fixed holiday dates.. Work in excess of normal hours of duty is normally discouraged, and in particular employees should not be required to consistently work overtime. Sex			X	Any requirement to work overtime can have a potentially negative impact on both men and women especially those with caring responsibilities. It may be that for some women and men they may find it more difficult to work later and/or longer hours due to childcare. This is statistically likely to affect more women than men.

				However, overtime is not usually compulsory and staff would be able to choose not to work overtime. This policy focusses on the payment of overtime rather than the necessity to undertake it. This will be mitigated by consideration being given to an employee's personal circumstances when overtime is required.
People with Religious or other Beliefs: different beliefs, customs (including atheists and those with no aligned belief)			X	A requirement to work overtime on specific days may affect some people from certain religions. For example Sundays for Christians, Saturdays for Jews. Other religions may be affected by evening working and specific times such as Ramadan and fasting during daylight hours. However as above overtime is not usually compulsory and staff would be able to choose not to work overtime This policy focusses on the payment of overtime rather than the necessity to undertake it. This will be mitigated by consideration being given to an employee's personal circumstances when overtime is required.
Pregnancy and Maternity (refers to the period after the birth, and is linked to maternity leave in the employment context. In the non-work context, protection against maternity discrimination is for 26 weeks after giving birth),			X	Pregnant women may find it more difficult to work overtime but his policy covers the payment of overtime when worked rather than the necessity to undertake overtime. As above overtime is not usually compulsory and staff would be able to choose not to work overtime This will be mitigated by consideration being given to an employee's personal circumstances when overtime is required.

More specifically the consideration of both Duties is more relevant to public facing services as opposed to internal HR Policies.

However, it is recommended that the policy is reviewed every two years or as legislation and/or changes to the Scheme of Pay and Conditions are made in order to ensure that the Policy remains relevant and fit for purpose.
